

Samar Muzaffar, MD, MPH
Biographical Sketch

Dr. Muzaffar's public health experience includes local, state, and federal level experience in health promotion, injury and disease prevention, quality and performance improvement, emergency preparedness, emergency medical services systems, and program and systems development with a focus on health services delivery.

She obtained her BA from Wellesley College. Dr. Muzaffar completed her medical degree at The University of Missouri-Columbia School of Medicine and her Master's in Public Health at the Johns Hopkins University School of Public Health. She went on to three years of general surgery training at Case Western Reserve University's University Hospitals of Cleveland and completed the Surgical Critical Care Fellowship at Boston University's Boston Medical Center. She also trained in Preventive Medicine at Johns Hopkins University Bloomberg School of Public Health and is Board Certified in Preventive Medicine.

Dr. Muzaffar assumed the role of Medical Director for the MO HealthNet program in May 2011.