Missouri Task Force on Children’s Justice

2014 Program Performance Annual Report

Introduction
The Task Force on Children’s Justice was established under the federal Child Abuse Prevention and Treatment Act (CAPTA) in 1991. All states receiving CAPTA funding are required to maintain a state, multidisciplinary task force on children’s justice. Missouri’s Task Force is comprised of 21 members representing most urban and metropolitan jurisdictions, as well as rural locations in the State, and includes law enforcement; judges and attorneys involved in both civil and criminal child abuse and neglect proceedings; child advocates; court appointed special advocates (CASA); health and mental health professionals; individuals representing child protective service agencies; individuals experienced in working with children with disabilities; representatives of parents’ groups; adult former victims of child abuse and or neglect; and individuals experienced in working with homeless children and youths (as defined in section 725 of the McKinney-Vento Homeless Assistance Act (42 U.S.C. 11434a)).

The mission and responsibility of the Task Force is to assist the State in developing, establishing, and operating programs designed to improve child welfare; in particular, the handling of child abuse and neglect cases, the handling of child abuse related fatalities, the prosecution of child abuse cases—particularly sexual abuse, and the handling of cases involving children with disabilities or serious health related problems. The Task Force is also charged with the oversight and distribution of federal grant money and reformation of policy and State laws related to the improvement of the investigative response to child abuse and neglect and to reduce trauma to child victims. The Missouri Task Force on Children’s Justice was created in 1991.

Statement of Needs

Needs of the Missouri Task Force on Children’s Justice include adequate, stable, and flexible funding to continue pursuit of improvement of the investigation and prosecution of child abuse and neglect investigations and reduce trauma to child victims. Stable funding will assist the State in its efforts to expand services; provide staff development with positive work environments, promote positive images and public support; the by-product being reduced worker turnover, staff retention and ultimately an improved ability of the State to respond to child abuse and neglect. The Task Force requires assistance and support from many state and local partners to succeed.

In August 2013, the Administration on Children and Families, Children’s Bureau, (ACF) informed the Children’s Division the Three Year Assessment submitted did not meet the program requirements of CJA. In response, Missouri submitted a request and was approved for an extension to complete a more thorough Three Year Assessment. The extension request included a work plan outlining a series of Task Force activities, including refocusing and re-energizing the Task Force. This extension required the Task Force to submit an addendum to the 3-year assessment by no later than March 1, 2014. The Task Force complied with the requirements of the grant extension, developed and completed a work plan, and submitted an addendum to the 3-year assessment. As a result, ACF deemed the Task Force had come into compliance with the requirements of CJA. The Task Force is now refocused and with the help and guidance of ACF, expects significant improvements in the functioning and accomplishments of the Task Force.
Project Impacts and/or Progress

During the past year, the Task Force has met quarterly, reviewed and discussed activities to improve the investigative, administrative, and judicial handling of cases of child abuse and neglect, including child sexual abuse and exploitation; cases involving suspected child maltreatment-related fatalities; and cases involving a potential combination of jurisdictions, such as intrastate, interstate, Federal-State, and State-Tribal, in a manner which reduces the additional trauma to the child victim and the victim’s family and also ensures procedural fairness to the accused. In addition to quarterly meetings of the full task force, the critical event review subcommittee met quarterly to review cases and the finance committee met quarterly to further develop the guidelines for the finance committee and review grant applications. The following are the activities completed by the task force as a whole and by committee, for the 12 month period preceding the date of submission.

Activities of the Task Force:

In 2013, the task force reviewed the “Medically-Based Screening Protocol for the Medical Response to Child Sexual Abuse/Assault,” developed by the SAFE-CARE Advisory Council. This protocol was developed to improve the medical response to child sexual abuse allegations and in response to Missouri Revised Statute Section 334.950.4 which states, “The SAFE-CARE network shall develop recommendations concerning medically based screening processes and forensic evidence collection for children who may be in need of an emergency examination following an alleged sexual assault. Such recommendations shall be provided to the SAFE-CARE providers, child advocacy centers, hospitals and licensed practitioners that provide emergency examinations for children suspected of being victims of abuse.” The task force is in full support of and promotes the use of these protocols in the investigation of child sexual and physical abuse.

First Responder Video – “Child Maltreatment and the First Responder” – Supplemental Training for Missouri Law Enforcement related to Child Abuse/Neglect Investigations

At the June 2013 Task Force meeting, current Chairperson, Lori Ross, shared a video, “Child Maltreatment and the First Responder”, produced by the North Carolina Justice Academy (NCJA), which provided information for first responders and law enforcement with regard to the investigation of child maltreatment and the function of the multi-disciplinary team. The Children’s Division reviewed the video and also asked members of the Missouri State Technical Assistance Team (STAT) to review the video and provide some guidance.

After reviewing the video, and receiving positive support from (STAT), the Children’s Division contacted the NCJA to request permission to duplicate the video and share it throughout Missouri. The NCJA graciously granted permission for the Task Force in Missouri to reproduce and share the video as deemed appropriate for its use in Missouri.

At the September 12, 2013 meeting of the Task Force each member of the Task Force present was provided a copy of the video. Based upon information provided, the Task Force recommended and unanimously approved a motion to move forward with reproducing the video and sharing with law enforcement officials throughout Missouri.
STAT agreed to put together a lesson plan applicable to the video to meet Missouri Peace Officer Standards Training (POST) requirements so law enforcement officers could obtain POST training credits for viewing the video. STAT made some minor modifications to the video including a brief disclaimer indicating the video was produced by officials in North Carolina and some of the material would not be applicable in Missouri.

On October 18, 2013, STAT Chief, Rodney Jones, presented the video at a meeting of the State Child Fatality Review Panel. After viewing the video, several panel members representing law enforcement and prosecutors expressed the need for such a video in the training curriculum for law enforcement agencies and other multi-disciplinary team members in their respective jurisdictions. Several copies of the video were distributed to the requesting panel members for use in their respective jurisdictions.

On March 11, 2014, STAT received notice from the Missouri Department of Public Safety that the lesson plan had been POST approved for two hours of continuing education training credit for law enforcement in the area of technical studies. STAT will present the training and assist the Task Force in making the training more readily available to include in the curriculum of law enforcement academies throughout Missouri. In addition to the POST certified training, the video is available to law enforcement and other multi-disciplinary team members upon request. The training will provide law enforcement with valuable information for the investigation and prosecution of child abuse and neglect.

Children’s Justice Act Task Force Survey

On September 18, 2013 the Task Force published a survey (linked below) to the child abuse and neglect investigative community to assess the current effectiveness of the multi-disciplinary approach to child abuse and neglect throughout the state of Missouri. The Task Force developed the survey in an effort to identify any service gaps or specific issues Task Force funding may be helpful in improving the investigation of child abuse and neglect. The survey was sent out to community partners, multi-disciplinary team members and other stakeholders via Survey Monkey and posted on Missouri’s CJA website. Gathering information from the various professionals who interact with the child welfare system statewide and concerned Missouri citizens in our effort to collect information provides a broad statewide perspective of the effectiveness of our multi-disciplinary approach to the investigation of child abuse and neglect. Results from the survey questions were designed to provide the Task Force information regarding the effectiveness of Missouri’s system in the investigation, prosecution, and treatment of child abuse in Missouri and will assist the Task Force in developing recommendations for system improvements.

Children’s Justice Act Task Force Survey

On December 12, 2013, preliminary results from the survey were presented to the Task Force for review. Upon initial review of the results, the Task Force determined the responses, while useful, were not fully representative of all regions of the state. For this reason, the Task Force determined that revisiting and refining the survey, posting it again, doing more outreach to ensure a more statewide response and analyzing the results again would be useful in conducting the next three year assessment. The Task Force reviewed the available results and made the following recommendations for their comprehensive assessment:

The survey identified the most prevailing barriers to the effective handling and prosecution of child abuse neglect investigations to be:

1. Unmanageable case loads and worker turnover
2. Inadequate training, including trauma training
3. Inconsistent statutory investigative time frame requirements between disciplines
4. Insufficient communication between MDT members

The Task Force recommended the Children’s Division’s continue to work to address worker turnover so adequate staffing can be maintained, caseloads will be more manageable and the investigative response will be improved. The Children’s Division has been working directly with the legislature through the budget appropriations process to address a staff retention plan.

In response to this recommendation, the Task Force will support and consider use of CJA funds to assist the Children’s Division’s current and ongoing efforts to address worker turnover and staff retention issues. Effectively addressing worker turnover will significantly impact the Children’s Division’s ability to impact and improve the investigation and prosecution of child abuse and neglect.

The Task Force recommended the Children’s Division focus efforts on providing more comprehensive training to staff and other multi-disciplinary team members related to the investigation of child abuse and neglect, including trauma informed training as it relates to reducing trauma to child victims as they endure the investigative process.

In response to this recommendation the Task Force will support and consider CJA grant applications submitted for the purposes of addressing training needs of Children’s Division staff and multi-disciplinary team members involved in the investigation and prosecution of child abuse and neglect, including trauma training as it relates to the impact/trauma of the investigative process to the child victim.

The Task force recommended the Children’s Division continue to make efforts to meet statutory time frames related to the investigation of child abuse and neglect. The survey identified a problem with caseworkers completing investigations in a timely manner. The Children’s Division is currently working on this issue from multiple angles, including but not limited to worker turnover, training and evaluation of its investigative process. Presently, the Children’s Division’s statutory investigative time requirements are under review as the result of two appeals pending before the Missouri Supreme Court. The ruling of the Supreme Court will provide much needed guidance to the Children’s Division in policy and practice development related to the investigation of child abuse and neglect.

In response to this recommendation the Task Force will continue to monitor the status of cases currently before the Supreme Court. In addition, the 2014 Missouri legislature filed and is considering legislative changes to address the statutory time requirements facing the Children’s Division. The two bills of most interest to the Task Force are as follows:

- House Bill 1092 would extend the time requirement for the Children’s Division to complete an investigation from 30 calendar days to 30 business days, unless good cause for not completing the investigation is documented in the Family and Children Electronic System (FACES).

- Senate Bill 802 would change the time requirement for the Children’s Division to complete an investigation and to notify the alleged perpetrator of the determination. The requirement for completion would be changed from 30 calendar days to 45 calendar days unless good cause for not completing the investigation is documented in FACES. This bill would also extend the amount of time the Children’s Division has to notify the alleged perpetrator of its determination from 90 days to 100 days.

The Task Force will continue to monitor and support legislation which would enhance the Children’s Division’s ability to investigate child abuse and neglect. The Task Force recommends the Children’s Division focus efforts on securing funding for additional training, most specifically for Children’s Division staff, law enforcement, forensic interviewers and others working with children through the investigative process. Additional funding and training in conjunction with guidance from the Missouri Supreme Court and the legislature will be essential to the Children’s Division and other multi-disciplinary team members’ efforts to improve the investigative response to child abuse/neglect.

The Task Force will make additional recommendations to improve the investigation and prosecution of child abuse and neglect as they become apparent in its ongoing evaluation of future survey results.

Where the Judiciary Prosecutes in Front of Itself: Missouri’s Unconstitutional Juvenile Court Structure
by Josh Gupta-Kagan Civil Justice Clinic Staff Attorney, Lecturer in Law

On December 12, 2013, the Task Force discussed their review of a research paper published in April 2013 by the Washington University School of Law. As described in the title, this review was specific to Missouri juvenile court’s structure related to prosecuting and adjudicating cases of child abuse and neglect and delinquency. The review of this paper, as part of their comprehensive review of state’s investigation and prosecution of child abuse/neglect aroused the interest of several members who asked the Task Force to have a more in-depth discussion at a future Task Force meeting.

Office of Child Advocate Annual Report

On December 18, 2013, the Office of Child Advocate (OCA) 2012 Annual report was sent to the full Task Force for review.

Office of Child Advocate 2012 Annual Report

The Office of Child Advocate was established in 2002. In Missouri, the OCA operates under the Office of Administration and is independent of the Department of Social Services, Children's Division, the Department of Mental Health, and the Juvenile Court. The OCA provides an avenue through which citizens are able to obtain an independent and impartial review of disputed decisions, actions, and inactions regarding any child at risk of abuse, neglect, or other harm. In addition, the OCA provides an additional mechanism for the review of unsubstantiated investigations conducted by the Children’s Division.

The Task Force did not make any additional recommendations based upon reviews of the OCA’s annual report. However, review of this report provides the Task Force with additional information regarding how the child abuse and neglect investigative system functions in the state of Missouri based upon findings of the OCA. The Children’s Division will continue to ensure the Task Force reviews this report each year in its comprehensive review of Missouri’s child abuse and neglect investigative system.

Review of State Child Fatality Review Panel Annual Report

On December 12, 2013, the Task Force reviewed a draft of the 2012 State Child Fatality Review Panel Report (CFRP). The draft included only a portion of the full report which was not yet available. The Task Force did not make any additional recommendations based upon the draft report. On January 6, 2014, the final Child Fatality Review Report was sent to the full Task Force for review.

2012 State Child Fatality Review Program Annual Report
Upon review of the final CFRP report Task Force members, through correspondence with the Children’s Division, recommended the Task Force support a recommendation from the CFRP report indicating the need for an increase in training for law enforcement and Children’s Division staff related to interviewing children. This recommendation is consistent with preliminary findings from the CJA survey and reviews of critical events. In 2013, Task Force funding supported forensic interview training for law enforcement and Children’s Division staff by awarding grants to Missouri KidsFirst and the Missouri Office of Prosecuting Services to provide various trainings of this nature through forensic interview training conferences as well as informational webinars respectively.

Finance Committee: The Finance Committee is responsible for monitoring CJA’s expenses, budget and grant reviews. The goal of this committee in 2013 was to develop additional guidelines for grant requests including more comprehensive evaluation and reporting from grantees. During 2013 the Finance Committee revisited and reviewed the grant funding application/scoring rubric. The application, which includes a scoring rubric, is posted on the Missouri CJA website.

In addition to approving grant applications, the Task Force voted to post a list of approved projects to the CJA website. The list posted on the website includes projects funded for the past 4 years, listed by year of award. This information was added to give potential grantees a sense of the type of projects and trainings funded in the past, as well as the amounts requested. In 2013, the Task Force voted to fund the following projects:

- Midwest Foster Care and Adoption Association – ONE Conference: All Together Now project - $15,000.00
- MO Juvenile Justice Association (MJJA) 2013 Spring Educational Conference Scholarships - $9,975.00

In 2013, the Finance Committee further outlined the subcommittee’s responsibilities, consistent with the By-laws, by developing a working document titled, “Finance Committee Responsibilities and Guidelines.” The result of this work was consistent use of the scoring rubric for grant reviews, teamwork in the evaluation of grant applications, and a renewed focus on CJA’s mission to improve the investigative response to allegations of child abuse and neglect when recommending grant funding to the full task force. At the December 12, 2013 meeting of the full Task Force voted unanimously to approve and adopt the guidelines as written. A copy of the Finance Committee Responsibilities and Guidelines is attached.

Legislative/Policy Committee: The Legislative Committee is responsible for monitoring legislative actions and reviewing policy changes to develop recommendations. The Task Force, in its ongoing effort to strengthen the impact of the task force, reviewed and revised its By-laws in accordance with federal guidelines and Missouri state law. The legislative committee reviewed laws and policies of the state related to the investigation of child abuse and neglect. The following legislation filed during the 2013 legislative session became law in August 2013:

- House Bill 505 - This bill modifies several provisions of law related to the response to reports of child abuse and neglect in Missouri, including:
  - Authorizes the Office of Child Advocate to provide mediation services in instances involving allegations of sexual misconduct and a charter school when allegations arose in a school setting and when requested by both parties.
  - Requires school employees and the superintendent of a school district to report directly to the Children’s Division when a student reports sexual misconduct on the part of a teacher or school employee.
  - Requires, by January 1, 2014, for all school districts and charter schools to adopt and implement guidelines for child abuse and neglect mandated reporter training for all school employees and that such training be conducted annually.
  - Requires by July 1, 2014, every school district and charter school include, in its teacher and employee training, up-to-date and reliable information on identifying signs of sexual abuse in children and danger signals of potentially abusive relationships between children and adults.
  - Requires mandated reporters to immediately report suspected child abuse or neglect to the Children’s Division. This bill also prohibits any internal investigation into a report of child abuse or neglect until the mandatory report to the Division has been made. (These provisions effectively remove language in the statute which made it permissible to pass the responsibility for reporting to a designated person in the school or institution.)
  - Adds a provision stating when two or more members of a medical institution mandated to report suspected child abuse or neglect, jointly have knowledge of suspected abuse or neglect, a single report may be made by a designated member of a medical team. Any member who has knowledge that the member designated to report failed to do so, he or she is required to immediately report.
  - Prohibits any supervisor or administrator from impeding or inhibiting an employee, who is a mandated reporter, from reporting suspected child abuse or neglect. Additionally, this bill provides no person making a report can be subject to any sanction, including any adverse employment action, for making a report. Every employer must ensure any employee required to report has immediate and unrestricted access to communications technology necessary to make an immediate report and is temporarily relieved of other work duties for the time as is required to make the report.
Specifications the offense of abuse or neglect of a child is a class A felony if the child dies as a result of injuries sustained from chargeable conduct. This provision included an emergency clause, therefore became effective on July 9th, 2013, when the bill was approved by the Governor.

Requires the Department of Public Safety to establish rules regarding the reimbursement of the costs of forensic examinations for children younger than 14 years of age. This must include the establishment of conditions and definitions for emergency and non-emergency forensic exams and may include additional qualifications for appropriate medical providers performing non-emergency forensic exams. Public safety must also provide reimbursement regardless of whether or not the findings indicate the child was abused.

Provides the Department of Public Safety with authority to add qualifications for a medical provider to perform non-emergency forensic evaluations for child(ren) younger than 14 years of age.

Senate Bill 256 – This bill changed the laws regarding child abuse and neglect as follows:

- Presently, Missouri has a statutorily mandated Task Force called the Task Force on the Prevention of Sexual Abuse of Children. This bill removed the January 1, 2013 expiration date of the Task Force and beginning January 1, 2014 required the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education (DESE), in collaboration with the Task Force, to submit an annual report to the general assembly on the Department’s progress in prevention child sexual abuse.
- This bill also amended the Safe Place for Newborns Act of 2002 by changing the time allowed for a parent to give up custody of his/her child for up to 5 days from birth to 45 days to birth without being prosecuted for abandonment as long as there are no signs of abuse. The parent’s relinquishment of the child has to be to a medical facility staff member, provider or volunteer, a firefighter or emergency medical technician or a law enforcement officer.

The legislative committee reviewed legislation related to the investigation and prosecution of child abuse and neglect during the 2014 legislative session as well. The bills of most interest to the Task Force are as follows:

- House Bill 1092 would extend the time requirement for the Children’s Division to complete an investigation from 30 calendar days to 30 business days, unless good cause for not completing the investigation is documented in the Family and Children Electronic System (FACES).
- Senate Bill 802 would change the time requirement for the Children’s Division to complete an investigation and to notify the alleged perpetrator of the determination. The requirement for completion would be changed from 30 calendar days to 45 calendar days unless good cause for not completing the investigation is documented in FACES. This bill would also extend the amount of time the Children’s Division has to notify the alleged perpetrator of its determination from 90 days to 100 days.
House Bill 1857 - Currently, if the court finds that significant emotional or psychological trauma to a child victim will result in his or her testifying in the presence of the defendant, the court may order an in-camera video-taped deposition of the child victim’s testimony be made for use at preliminary hearings and trial. This bill would allow the court to order that an alleged child victim may testify in court proceedings via live, closed-circuit video from a different location than the defendant if there is any possibility that any level of trauma would result from the child testifying in the presence of the defendant.

In 2013, the Legislative committee, with the input of the full Task Force, revised the CJA By-laws. The Task Force unanimously voted to approve and adopt the revised By-laws. Consistent with the By-laws, the by-laws will be reviewed for final approval by the Department Director and the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court. Goals for the Legislative Committee for 2014 include finalization of the CJA By-laws continued monitoring of the progress of the two cases currently awaiting a ruling by the Supreme Court, and keeping a close watch on House Bill 1092, House Bill 1857 and Senate Bill 804. The outcome of the Supreme Court ruling and the status of these bills at the end of the 2014 legislative session will help guide the legislative committee priorities for 2014.

Critical Event Review Committee: The purpose of conducting critical event reviews is to determine, based on individual cases and more global trends, where concerns exist related to the handling of child abuse and neglect investigations. The members of this committee hope to gain insight through the review of cases, into laws, policies, or practices which might need to be addressed to improve handling and prosecution of these cases, and reduce trauma to the child victims. These insights will serve to inform recommendations made by the committee to the Children’s Division and the Courts, as per the charge of the Children’s Justice Act.

The Children’s Division presented the Children’s Division’s Critical Event Protocol to the Task Force as a means of guidance to the Task Force in their development of a formalized process. The Children’s Division’s Critical Event Protocol is a process for the reporting, reviewing and documenting of the Children’s Divisions responses to significant events involving a child, such as child deaths, suicides or serious physical injury as well as other circumstances requiring critical event response. Critical events are classified by category, which determines the Children’s Division’s response. A collection of tools called, the Critical Event Tool Kit, is used to guide a critical event reviewer through the case review process. The Critical Event Committee used these tools as a guide in conducting the reviews of Children’s Division cases.

In 2013, the Critical Event Review Committee met quarterly and conducted comprehensive reviews of randomly selected cases. The Critical Event Review Committee made case specific recommendations as well as more systemic recommendations as the result of their reviews.

In August and September, 2013, the Critical Event Review Committee conducted a comprehensive review of the fatality of a child in the custody of the Children’s Division. As a result of the review the Committee made several recommendations related to the investigation of child abuse/neglect and presented those recommendations to the full Task Force on September 12, 2013. The recommendations were as follows:

- Hotline investigation visits should be unannounced.
- Children with physical evidence as reported by the caller should be seen within 24 hours of the call in order to collect and document evidence.
When young (semi-verbal or non-verbal) children are the subject of the abuse allegation, investigators should be required to make collateral contacts with at minimum: a close neighbor, a child care provider (if there is one), a minimum of two close relatives who don’t live in the same home, a health care practitioner who treats the child.

When a child asks an investigator to come see them at school because of their fear of sharing information at home, this should be viewed as a very clear red flag indicator of possible abuse/neglect in the home.

Investigate the use of standardized interview protocols in child abuse investigations nation-wide.

Observation of indicators of drug use/abuse should be a factor when considering the safety and well-being of children. Policy and/or training may need to be adjusted to reflect a priority on consideration of this issue during abuse/neglect investigations.

Evidence of previous child sexual abuse or exploitation, or exposure to inappropriate sexual material, should be a consideration in determining whether or not a parent is an appropriate placement resource.

Policy should be reviewed to determine whether or not an exception should be made in the hotline process and other processes which may exist, to assure accountability for the care provided to youth who remain in the state’s custody beyond their 18th birthday.

On November 7, 2013, seven members of the Critical Event Subcommittee attended a training and tour of the Child Abuse/Neglect Hotline. The training involved a one-hour presentation on the structured-decision making process, explanation of how the calls are handled, recorded, etc. and a question and answer session for the Task Force members. The tour consisted of a walk-through of the hotline facilities and observation of a real-time call to the child abuse/neglect hotline, followed by the opportunity to debrief and ask further questions. The tour was an excellent educational opportunity for the members and provided them with valuable information necessary to better understand the process by which information is gathered and decisions are made at the hotline regarding the classification and investigative response to calls received at the hotline.

On November 7th and November 18th, members of the Critical Event Subcommittee convened again and conducted a comprehensive review of three critical event cases including one fatality case, and two serious injury physical abuse cases. The subcommittee’s review resulted in the following recommendations:

- Missouri law currently prohibits a child in the custody of the court from being placed into the home of someone who has been convicted of specific child abuse crimes. However, it does not prohibit citizens from allowing their children to be placed at imminent risk of harm when they ‘knowingly’ place (or reside with) a child in the home of someone who has been convicted of the crime of child abuse. Research should be done to investigate whether or not other states have laws which address the risks parents place children in when they knowingly allow a convicted child abuser to have unfettered access to their child.

- Investigators, children’s service workers and prosecutors should take all the necessary investigative steps to ensure the non-offending parent, is actually “non-offending”. This recommendation is made based upon concerns non-offending parents often seemingly choose to place their child/children in imminent risk of harm by residing with a person who has previously been convicted of the crime of abuse of a child.

- Safety/risk assessment tools must be utilized in a manner which consistently and accurately reflects the actual safety and/or risks otherwise identified in interviews, case narratives and prior history. Additional training for staff on how to properly utilize the risk/assessment tools is recommended.

- Consideration should be made to ensure any child found to have been sexually abused receives or has the opportunity to receive therapy. This would assist the child in gaining mental/emotional recovery and stability not only to heal individually, but to successfully cope as investigation and/or prosecution of the case moves forward.

Goals for the Critical Event Review Committee for 2014 include continuing to review cases, identifying trends and training needs and providing recommendations to the Children’s Division for improvements in the investigation and prosecution of child abuse and neglect.

Recruitment Committee: The Recruitment committee is responsible for monitoring CJA’s membership, to ensure it consist of a minimum of 21 members and represents the required disciplines as specified in Section 207(c)(1) of the Act. The current membership includes at least one member from the following categories: law enforcement community, criminal court judge, civil court judge, prosecuting attorney, defense attorney, child advocates, attorneys for children, health professionals, mental health professionals, Children’s Division staff, parents and representatives of parents’ groups, adult former victims of child abuse and or neglect, individuals experienced with working with homeless children and youth and individuals experienced in working with children with disabilities. The membership application is posted on the Task Force’s state website. Applications for membership will be accepted and reviewed on an ongoing basis. Those interested may attend all open meetings in advance of selection to the Task Force.

Goals for the Recruitment Committee for 2014 include monitoring member’s term limits, and seeking to fill any vacancies as set forth by CAPTA. In 2013, the Task Force maintained full membership consisting of a minimum of 21 members and meeting membership requirements as specified in Section 207(c)(1). However, the Recruitment Committee was very busy during this reporting period maintaining membership. The Task Force experienced several resignations, including Judge Bennett T. Burkemper, Civil Court Judge, Naomi Hunter, Mental Health Professional, and Wanda Nierman, Children’s Division Representative. To fill these vacancies and to otherwise meet the specified requirements, the Task Force added, Judge Robert Liston, Civil Court Judge, Melissa Smyser, Mental Health Professional, Joey Thompson, Child Protective Service Agency, Linda Miller, Persons Working With Children With Disabilities, Dan Patterson, Prosecuting Attorney, Nathan Ross, Adult Former Victim of Child Abuse or Neglect, and Gaylin Rich-Carver, Defense Attorney. In addition to these resignations and additions, three members were reappointed for additional four year terms respectively. Those members included Judge Rachel Bringer-Shepherd, Criminal Court Judge, MaryAnn Williamson, Child Advocate, and Marjorie Carter, Family Attorney. While the Task Force presently enjoys a full membership, the recruitment committee will continue to be active in seeking interested and qualified individuals to fill any future vacancies on the Task Force.

Training Committee: Duties include monitoring and improving access to training opportunities for professionals and other community partners involved in the investigation and prosecution of child abuse and neglect. The training committee plans to gain information specific to training needs across the State from the survey being sent to CJA community partners and stakeholders to accomplish the goals of CJA.

The Training Committee developed the Missouri Child Abuse and Neglect-Educational Opportunities listing which endorses the practice of collaborative multidisciplinary training as an opportunity for parents and professionals to improve the handling of child abuse and neglect cases. The Missouri organizations listed on the CJA website offer opportunities for training on topics pertinent to child abuse and neglect.

Goals for the Training Committee for 2014 include continuing to identify areas of focus consistent with the purpose of CJA assessing the Survey results to help determine the training needs across the State.
Funded CJA Grant Projects: 12 months prior to submission

The following are projects funded by CJA. The amounts are actual expenditures on each project.

Child Advocacy Centers
Child Advocacy Centers in Missouri improve the processes by which Missouri responds to cases of child abuse and neglect, particularly child sexual abuse or exploitation. Forensic examinations, victim interviews, referrals to treatment providers, gathering and retention of forensic evidence used for criminal prosecution of the offender were historically funded in part by the CJA grant. In FFY13, these centers received ongoing support from grants that would have otherwise expired in lieu of the CJA grant funding.

There are 15 Child Advocacy Centers located across the State, with some locations having satellite offices and serving children and families in the surrounding counties. The availability of these centers allows for a one-time interview of the victim as well as the opportunity for the physical examination to occur in the same location, preventing unnecessary stress and trauma to the child victim and their family. Child Advocacy Centers often facilitate scheduling the exams and interviews to further assist in the investigation and criminal prosecution process.

The Sexual Assault Forensic Examination – Child Abuse Resource and Education SAFE-CARE program is administered by the Department of Health and Senior Services (DHSS). SAFE-CARE network providers (physicians and other medical providers who conduct forensic examinations) work in close collaboration with the Child Advocacy Centers. The mission statement of the SAFE-CARE Network continues to be “to improve outcomes for children who are victims of, or at risk for, child maltreatment by enhancing the skills and role of the medical provider in a multidisciplinary context.” This collaboration prevents multiple interviews and minimizes trauma to the child and family.

In SFY13 the number of SAFE–CARE providers declined from 54 to 31. This was due to attrition and changes in training requirements. According to the Department of Public Safety’s SAFE payment program, there were 2,032 child SAFE exams in SFY13. This data is from a different source than the SFY12 data reported to DHSS (1,391 exams). Providers are no longer required to report exam numbers to DHSS, and very few reported in SFY13. Therefore, the Department of Public Safety data is the most accurate available at this time.

While data related to the successful prosecution of perpetrators involved in cases served by the Child Advocacy Centers is not available, it is well established that the forensic process provided by the Advocacy Centers, including the handling of evidence and quality of victim interviews, continues to improve the investigation and judicial handling (prosecution) process.

The majority of forensic interviewers who conduct the victim interviews use a model interviewing technique called “ChildFirst.” By using this technique, the quality of the victim interview is raised to a standard prosecutors consider helpful in the prompt and successful resolution of civil and particularly, the criminal court proceedings.

Proposed Activities for FFY14

In 2014, the Task Force will continue to conduct critical event reviews of cases of child abuse and neglect, focusing primarily on child fatalities, near fatalities and serious physical injury cases. The Critical Event Review Committee will meet quarterly to review cases and to make recommendations to the full task force related to concerns found in specific cases as well as systemic concerns. Recommendations from the Critical Event Review Committee will be focused on and generate discussion of the Task Force designed to address issues and barriers to the effective handling and prosecution of child abuse and neglect cases.

The Task Force, via the Finance Committee, will support the improvement of the investigation and prosecution of child abuse and neglect by funding grants designed to improve the investigative response and the prosecution of child abuse and neglect. The Task Force will be focusing on funding projects that will enhance training for those multi-disciplinary team members investigating child abuse and neglect and any innovative pilot projects designed to focus on attempts to improve that process and/or reduce trauma to child victims during the investigative process.
In 2014, the Legislative Committee will continue to review Children’s Division policy and follow the progress of currently proposed legislation related to the improvement of the investigation and prosecution of child abuse and neglect. In response to the recommendations of the Task Force, the Legislative Committee will specifically monitor the progress of House Bill 1092 related to investigative time frames for the Children’s Division, Senate Bill 802 related to investigative time frames for the Children’s Division. In addition, the Legislative Committee will be monitoring and awaiting the outcome of the Supreme Court ruling on two cases before the court on appeal related to investigative time frames for the Children’s Division. The progress of House Bill 1857 related to child victim testimony via closed-circuit video will also be of interest to the Legislative Committee. The conclusion of the 2014 legislative session and a final ruling of the Supreme Court will be significant in the Task Force’s action plan to address issues related to time requirements for the completion of child abuse and neglect investigations and reducing trauma to child victims.

In 2014, the Recruitment Committee will continue to ensure the Task Force is at full membership and remains in compliance with Section 207(c)(1) of CAPTA. The Recruitment committee will also continue to work on ways to promote the work of the Task Force in a way that would attract the interests of qualified persons to fill future vacancies.

In 2014, the Task Force will continue to work to evaluate the CJA survey posted and sent out in 2013. The Task Force will further evaluate the effectiveness of the survey, the quality of the questions, the meaningfulness of the responses and the means of distribution. Working on the survey in a more comprehensive manner in 2014 will help the Task Force determine how to use the survey and any information obtained in the future.

The Task Force will monitor the outcomes of the Children’s Division’s Child Abuse and Neglect Report Annual Report, the Missouri State Child Fatality Review Program Annual Report, and the Office of the Child Advocate Annual Report. The Task Force will discuss and make recommendations for improvement based on their information gathering in collaboration with these reports and findings.

On March 13, 2014 at the quarterly meeting, the Task Force further reviewed the recommendations included in the Addendum to the Three Year Assessment and prioritized the work of the Task Force moving forward. The priorities of the Task Force consistent with the requirements of section 107(e)(1)(A),(B), and (C) respectively are as follows:

(A) The Task Force will assist the Children’s Division and multi-disciplinary team members involved in the investigation and prosecution of child abuse and neglect by focusing efforts on developing, supporting and funding more comprehensive training, including but not limited to: specifically identifying drug, alcohol, and other substance abuse identification related to safety of children, trauma informed training for investigators, multi-disciplinary team training, forensic interview training, identification of child abuse and neglect, mechanisms of injury, identification of appropriate collateral contacts and witnesses and use of safety and risk assessment tools in the investigative process.

(B) The Task Force will assist the Children’s Division in promoting the use of the Peace Officer Standards Training (POST) certified training developed for law enforcement and first responders, “Child Maltreatment and the First Responder” through networking with other professionals and stakeholders involved in the child protection community, most specifically those involved in the investigation and prosecution of child abuse and neglect.

(C) The Task Force will review Children’s Division policy and law related to the investigation of child abuse and neglect.
1) The Task Force will continue to monitor the status of the Supreme Court with regard to the appeals before the Court related to time requirements in the investigation of child abuse and neglect. In addition, the Task Force will monitor and support current legislation related to time requirements for child abuse and neglect investigations and the reduction of trauma to child victims including HB1092, SB802 and HB1857.

2) The Task Force will further investigate the potential need to address reporting processes through the Child Abuse and Neglect Hotline as it relates to youth age 18 to 21 remaining in state custody.

3) The Task Force will investigate the use of standard interviewing protocols.

4) The Task Force will research the Child Endangerment statutes throughout the country to determine consistency of the laws and whether or not current laws adequately protect children from placement or exposure to persons known to be convicted of crimes against children.

Proposed CJA Grant Projects:

Child Assessment Centers

Child Assessment Centers in Missouri are utilized for the investigation and prosecution of child abuse, in particular, child sexual abuse. The Children’s Division currently funds Child Assessment Centers, of which a portion of the funding for the Child Assessment Centers comes from the CJA Grant.

The entire child population in Missouri has access to one of these centers, as they are available state-wide. The number of children served would be proportionate to the number of children reported for child abuse and neglect, especially, sexual abuse. The children served are those children reported as a victim of child abuse, but primarily, child sexual abuse. Child Assessment Centers are one-stop shops, where child victims may be interviewed one time, while allowing observation by witnesses such as the Guardian Ad Litem, Prosecuting Attorney, Law Enforcement and Children’s Division Investigators, and recording of the interview for criminal prosecution. The Assessment Centers refer victims and their non-offending caregivers to additional supportive service providers, who can continue to address trauma issues for the child or family as necessary. The Centers contribute to the reform of the State child welfare system’s handling of cases of child abuse and neglect by not only increasing the likelihood of effective prosecution but by also further reducing trauma to the victim by a reduction in the number of interviews.
