Executive Summary

Purpose: The MO HealthNet Pharmacy Program will implement a state-specific preferred drug list.

Why Issue Selected:

Acne vulgaris is a self-limiting disorder that affects primarily teenagers and young adults. In adolescence, sebaceous glands increase sebum release after puberty. Small cysts called comedones form in hair follicles due to blockage of the pore due to retention of sebum and keratinous material. Bacterial activity within the comedones releases free fatty acids from sebum, causing inflammation within the cyst. This results in rupture of the cyst wall and subsequent inflammatory reaction due to extrusion of oily and keratinous debris from the cyst. The goal of therapy is elimination of comedones which may be achieved by decreasing sebaceous gland activity, bacterial population, and inflammation with antibiotics, benzoyl peroxide, retinoids, or their combinations.

Total program savings for the PDL classes will be regularly reviewed.
