This map displays the 115 counties of Missouri, each colored according to its primary water body type. The legend at the top left identifies the categories: HITE (purple), MWA (green), and SKIIUP (red). The map shows a high concentration of SKIIUP (red) counties in the western and central regions, particularly around the St. Louis area. MWA (green) counties are scattered throughout the state, often in the eastern and southern parts. HITE (purple) counties are located in the southeastern corner of the state, specifically in the Mississippi River valley. Major cities like St. Louis, Kansas City, and Springfield are marked with red dots. The map also includes labels for major rivers and the state's borders with neighboring states.
